

---

CONTENTS

---

INTRODUCTION	xvii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	xxvii
PREFACE	xxix
CHAPTER ONE
INTRODUCTION: FROM CRAFTSMAN TO ARTIST	I
1 The Artist in the Ancient World	2
2 Medieval Regression and the Struggle for Freedom	7
3 The New Ideal of the Artist	14
CHAPTER TWO
ARTISTS AND PATRONS: REMARKS ON A CHANGING RELATIONSHIP	17
1 Financial Resources and Professional Practices	17
2 Old and New Ways of Evaluating Works of Art	22
3 Religious Convictions and Vicissitudes of Patronage	25
4 Merchant Class Patronage and the Emancipation of Artists	31
5 The Volte-Face in the Relation between Artist and Patron	34
6 Julius II and Michelangelo	38
7 Dilatoriness of Artists	40
CHAPTER THREE
ARTISTS' ATTITUDES TO THEIR WORK	42
1 Artists' Personalities and the Beginning of the Renaissance	42
2 Wandering Craftsmen and Artisans	44
3 The Lure of Rome	46

4	Obsession with Work	53
5	Creative Idleness	59
6	Creation in Solitude	63

CHAPTER FOUR

	ECENTRIC BEHAVIOUR AND NOBLE MANNERS	67
1	Florentine Eccentrics of the Early Sixteenth Century	67
2	Michelangelo's 'Distress of Mind and Temper'	71
3	Leonardo's Aloofness	75
4	Tribulations of Mind and Body	78
5	Cleanliness Mania	83
6	Alchemists and Necromancers	84
7	Weird Hobbies	88
8	Sixteenth Century Critics of Eccentric Artists	90
9	The Image of the Noble Artist	93
10	Rubens—the Perfect Gentleman	96

CHAPTER FIVE

	GENIUS, MADNESS, AND MELANCHOLY	98
1	Genius and Madness	98
2	The Saturnine Temperament	102
3	Hugo van der Goes' Case History	108
4	Seventeenth Century Melancholics	113
	Annibale Carracci	113
	Mastelletta	115
	Adam Elsheimer	118
	Francesco Duquesnoy	120
	Carlo Dolci	122
5	Was Franz Xaver Messerschmidt insane?	124

CHAPTER SIX

	SUICIDES OF ARTISTS	133
1	A Statistical Enquiry	133
2	Rosso Fiorentino	136
3	Francesco Bassano	139
4	Francesco Borromini	140
5	Pietro Testa	142
6	Marco Ricci	143

7	Suicides of Northern Artists	144
	Holland and England	144
	France	145
	Denmark	147
8	Conclusion	148

CHAPTER SEVEN

	CELIBACY, LOVE, AND LICENTIOUSNESS	150
1	Celibacy	150
2	Raphael—the Lover	153
3	Licentiousness and Religious Art	155
	Filippo Lippi's Elopement with Lucrezia Buti	155
	Unprincipled Renaissance Artists	158
4	Debauchery among Sixteenth and Seventeenth Century Artists	159
5	Agostino Tassi—the Seducer of Artemisia Gentileschi	162
6	Illicit, Ideal, and Platonic Love	165
7	'The Unspeakable Vice'	169
	Public Opinion and Homosexuality	169
	Leonardo's Denunciation and his Relation to Salai	170
	Giovanantonio Bazzi—the 'Sodomite'	173
8	Moral Conduct and Obscene Art	175

CHAPTER EIGHT

	ARTISTS AND THE LAW	181
1	Three Cases of Criminal Artists	181
2	Legal and Psychological Aspects of Crime in the Renaissance	183
3	Passion and Crime in Cellini's Life	187
4	Leone Leoni—a Successful Villain	190
5	Caravaggio, the 'Bohemian'	192
6	Belligerent Artists	196
7	The Ethics of Faking	201
8	Claude's Liber Veritatis	202
9	Faking of Old Masters and Fraudulent Restoration of Antiques	204
10	Thefts of Works of Art	205

CHAPTER NINE

MISERS AND WASTRELS	209
1 Misers	209
2 Hans Holbein—a Squanderer?	213
3 The Pattern of Prodigality in the Low Countries	215
4 Artists' Conviviality	220
The Dutch Bentbrotherhood in Rome	220
Festivities of Italian Renaissance Artists	221
5 Extravagance among the Italians	223
Lavishness Vindicated	223
The Gambler Guido Reni	223
Genoese Spendthrifts	224
6 Spanish, German, and French Wastrels	225

CHAPTER TEN

ACADEMIC AMBITIONS AND PROFESSIONAL JEALOUSIES	229
1 Professional Pride	229
2 Baccio Bandinelli's Pretensions	229
3 Academies of Art in Florence and Rome	232
4 Salvator Rosa's Academy	234
5 Titles and Honours	235
6 Stylish Dress and Decorous Manners	238
7 The Reverse of the Medal	239
8 Jealousies in Academic Circles	240
9 Suspicious Masters	243
10 Warfare within Local Schools	244
Bologna	244
Rome	246
11 Regional Feuds	248
Federigo Zuccari's ' Porta della Virtù '	249
The Bolognese in Naples	251

CHAPTER ELEVEN

BETWEEN FAMINE AND FAME	253
1 The Economic Position of Artists in the Renaissance	253
2 Andrea Schiavone—a Neglected Master	255
3 Artists' Professions of Poverty	255
Fra Filippo Lippi	256
Mantegna	257
Giambologna	258
Buontalenti	261

4	Some Wealthy Masters in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Centuries	262
5	The Financial Aspect of Dürer's Netherlandish Journey	263
6	Titian's Opulence and Financial Astuteness	265
7	Two Grand Seigneurs of the Baroque Bernini	270
	Rubens	273
8	Rubens and Rembrandt Contrasted	276
9	Van Dyck and Velasquez	277
10	The Acme of Dignity and Wealth: Sir Joshua Reynolds	278

CHAPTER TWELVE

	PERSONALITY, CHARACTER, AND WORK	281
1	Works as Keys to the Character of Artists	281
2	Giuseppe Arcimboldo—a Surrealist avant la lettre ?	283
3	Typological Theories of Psychologists: Lombroso and Kretschmer	286
4	Psycho-analytical Dialectics: The Interaction between the Artist's Personality and Work	288
	Freud's Study of Leonardo da Vinci	288
	Andrea del Sarto's Harpies: A Psycho-analytical Mystification	290
	The Psycho-analytical Sesame	291
5	Does a Constitutional Type of Artist Exist?	292

	NOTES	295
--	-------	-----

	BIBLIOGRAPHY	314
--	--------------	-----

	INDEX	333
--	-------	-----